

'Real Time lets agents get back to their roots.'

*Scott Kuczmariski

"The true power of independent agents lies in their role as trusted advisors for their clients. Real Time not only lets them write business faster—but just as importantly, gives them back the time to spend as their customers' advocate.

"Real Time minimizes transaction turnaround time for both agents and carriers. It allows agency staff to quote, write and service business as quickly as possible. This provides the best possible service to the client."
